CLASS ACTS

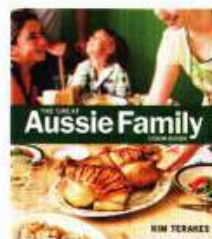

With a cool designer look and hot new Fisher&Paykel appliances, the recently refurbished Sydney Seafood School (pictured) is more popular than ever – over 12,000 people sign up each year and numbers are rising. For your chance to win a cooking class here or at another school in your state, Fisher&Paykel is offering a giveaway to three H&G readers (for details, go to www.fisherandpaykel.com.au). The company has partnered with premium cooking schools around the country, such as Brisbane's Black Pearl Epicure and Raw Materials in Melbourne, making classes more fun with its innovative ovens, stovetops, refrigerators and DishDrawers.

Family fare

Recipes to enjoy now and hand down to the next generation.

1 Two busy mums, Kirsty Manning-Wilcox and Peta Heine, serve up garden-fresh fare and time-saving tips in We Love Food (Hardie Grant Books, $39.95).

2 Devoted dad Kim Terakes shares the fun of a healthy homemade feed in The Great Aussie Family Cookbook (Penguin Australia, $35).

3 Gran's Kitchen (Hardie Grant Books, $45) is Natalie Oldfield's ode to her grandmother Dulcie's delicious food and love of cooking.

Small bites

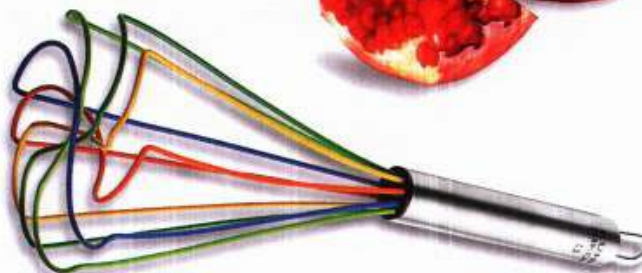

ESPRESSO YOURSELF

Think coffee tastes better in a real cup but only have time for takeaway? You can have the best of both worlds with a Maxwell & Williams' Coffee To Go cup. Made of double-walled porcelain, it has a silicon lid (available in eight colours) for easy portability; $10, www.maxwellandwilliams.com.au.

RED ALERT

Look for Australian-grown pomegranates, now in season through June and available at local grocers and supermarkets. The juicy and jewel-red Royal Pom variety, the first commercially grown pomegranate in the country, comes fresh to you from orchards in the Northern Territory and New South Wales.

The flat-bottomed silicone Rainbow Tornado Whisk, $33, from Kuhn Rikon, is perfect for stirring up custard, gravy or roux. It's heat-resistant, non-stick and reaches into corners without scratching. Call 1800 650 601 for your nearest supplier.
